

Backyard and Small Scale Composting

Presented by Regina Boykins

Tuesday, September 22nd | 6:30-7:45 pm
SOREC Extension Building (in the Auditorium)
569 Hanley Road, Central Point

Organic matter is one of the most important components of healthy soil. Compost is how you add organic matter to the soil. Learn how to make good healthy compost. In this class we'll have examples of materials and tools you'll need to become a compost master. We'll also talk about using amendments to make your compost more plant specific. Snacks and drinks will be provided.

About Regina Boykins

Regina graduated Jackson County Master Gardener Class of 2015. She has volunteered in the "Compost" demonstration garden every year since. Regina is an avid gardener and is always willing to learn new techniques and teach others.

For more information please contact Barbara Low at barbaralow@msn.com or call 541-840-1615.

Oregon State
University

Free Educational Event

